

User Profile: Newcomer Learner

Name: Bryan Lopez

Age: 27

Gender: Male

Location: Vancouver, BC

Work: McDonald's Crew Member

Education: High School Diploma

Marital Status: Single

"Learning the right words is like learning the right tools, both keep me safe and moving forward."

Personal Bio

Bryan is a high school graduate who moved from the Philippines to Canada last year. He is currently working as a crew member at McDonalds. He just got accepted into a trades program to become an automotive mechanic. While he is excited for this new opportunity, he worries about the language barriers and how it might affect his learning. He also worries about how it might make him feel less confident at work, particularly when communicating with supervisors, coworkers, or reading manuals. However, he is motivated to succeed in Canada, provide for his family back in the Philippines, and build a stable career. Bryan is eager for tools that can provide extra support while in school and help him learn trade-related English in practical, real-world contexts and connect with others in similar situations.

Main Point

- Chose trades for stability and career growth.
- Seeks for an additional tool to help support him with learning English during his training.
- Needs help understanding technical and safety jargon and terminology related to his trade.
- Wants to feel confident and safe on the job site.
- Values affordable and mobile-friendly tools.

Key Tasks /Goals

- Understand mechanic safety manuals and procedures by learning trade-specific vocabulary in English.
- Improve pronunciation and grammar to be understood clearly at work.
- Pass licensing exams and certifications.
- Build stable and long-term career in Canada.

Must Haves

- Easy-to-use mobile app with search and save features for documents and specific terms.
- Mobile-friendly interface that works well on job sites (light modes, tap-targets, and option to caption any audio).
- Community spaces for practice and peer support.
- Clear, trade-specific English resources with safety focus.

Never Do's

- Overcomplicate access and steps to translate things or get help.
- Require internet-only access without offline functionality.
- Deliver a cluttered and overwhelming interface that can become hard to navigate.

Key Behaviors

- Relies on mobile apps for learning and quick translations, often uses google translate.
- Studies English through TV series, YouTube videos, and social media.
- Balances long work hours, family responsibilities, and study.
- Tries to save money by finding free or low-cost resources online.
- Joins online groups in Tagalog for support and advice (such as facebook groups, reddit, etc.).
- Stores important work documents/photos on his phone for quick access.

Frustrations & Pain Points

- Difficulty understanding long document in English, often just skims over them.
- Struggles to find affordable trade-specific learning tools.
- Finds it hard to track learning progress or know if he's improving with his English.
- Overwhelmed by too many apps that don't connect together.
- Limited budget for extra tools, courses, or apps.

Technology Use

- Regularly checks TikTok, YouTube, and Instagram for learning tips and peer support.
- Often uses laptop to communicate with family in the Philippines.
- Prefers apps that work offline and allow short daily practice.